

SENATOR COX IS DEAD AT TORONTO AGED 73 YEARS

Financial and Industrial Genius of Ontario Succumbs After Extended Illness

AN OFFICIAL IN 48 DIFFERENT COMPANIES

Philanthropic and Charitable Gifts Many — Is Survived by Second Wife

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 16.—Hon. George Cox, senator, philanthropist, and business man, died at his residence on Bloor Street, Toronto, yesterday morning. For a long time the senator has been ailing, but it was only a week ago that he stopped working. He had been lame since Tuesday last, from which he partially recovered, to be succeeded by a fit of rheumatism, the result, and the end came this morning.

"Hard work did it," said one of his executors, "but he was never much a worker." The senator was born in 1840, 72 years ago. His wife, Mrs. Cox, is 70 years old. Her recreation has been change of work.

Senator George Alberta Cox, the man who has been called "the father of arbitration," as he has been well called, was born on May 7, 1840, at Colborne, Ontario, Canada. His son, Hon. Hartwell Cox, was a showered. At the age of sixteen he became an operator for the Montreal Telegraph Company.

Two years later he was made agent of the company at Peterborough, in which city he remained for nearly thirty years. While still in Peterborough, the youthful he became connected with various companies, the Canada Life Insurance and the Western Assurance Companies.

In 1871 he moved to Peterborough during this period and served in that capacity seven consecutive years. In 1878 he became president of the Mutual Building, which later was absorbed by the G.R.L. Co. In 1884 he started the Cox and Lewis & Cox Company and held the office of president till the time of his death. He was president of the Canadian Association of Architects, the latter president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. The number of his committees and associations to which he belonged are less than forty, of which he was president, vice-president, or a member.

Senator Cox's first marriage took place in Peterborough in 1862, his wife died in 1878. His second marriage took place in 1885, his wife died in 1905. Of the five children, four survive: Edward W. Cox, Mrs. Frank A. Davis, and Mrs. A. L. Davis. The other son, F. Hartwell Cox, died a few years ago. Senator Cox was a widower when he married to Miss Sterling, eldest daughter of Walter Sterling, of New York.

SNOWFALL WOULD GIVE MANY WORK

Six or Eight Inches of Snow Would Mean Work For Five Hundred Men

If we had just six or eight inches of snow we would require five hundred men immediately." This was the remark of W. N. Neeson, inspector of the timber camps of McKenzie & Son, a week ago, concerning a week's work for five hundred men.

The statement, though short, was very soon to be proved, for it was another member of the timber company, or some hundreds of miles away, who gave a sounding word to a blessing, inasmuch as finding work for many, with its attendant pay, is a great service.

A snowfall would be a positive, and even this is a auxiliary, factor for finding work, for many, with its attendant pay, is a great service.

HAND WOULD CRACK WITH SALT RHEUM

Pained and Burned. Hard and Sore Lungs. Couldn't Rest or Sleep. Finger Swollen. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

"I am, C. N. B.—I had salt poison on my hand and fingers. I never knew where my hand would crack so bad most of the time I had to wear a glove to do my work. The salt was so strong it would burn me. I wrapped it until it irritated so much that I didn't know what to do. I found a tongue depressor and some cotton and some soap. Many a sign I had to sit up to feel and rub them and sometimes that didn't help. I had to go to the doctor and the next morning I would find a big piece of skin which I had taken off. This made it hard to work. I had to take a bath and wash my hands and fingers. I thought they were ulcerous. They pained and burned so bad. I had to sit up all night and wash and soak and sleep and eat. I found that there would be a big bunch of pus and when I washed it off it would bleed. It would open almost as big as half a pint glass. I couldn't rest or sleep with the pain and that was the reason I had to go to the doctor. There was more inflammation for my finger than for my hand. I had to wash it again and was just as red as a piece of onion."

"I had to wash it again and again and again with it and wash the hand with a piece of cotton and after it was washed I used to take a piece of soap and wash it again on a piece of cotton and wrap the hand with a bandage. I was cured in a little over a week," says the patient.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. For a sample and price list, send a post card, post paid card to Peter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. D, Boston, U.S.A.

With the Curlers

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

By Bulletin Leased Wire.

EDMONTON, Mon., Jan. 16.—Playing through the day with three men in the McLennan Rink, of Minneapolis, came into the city last night, the western Curling hospital with a clean slate, five victories being claimed. The visitors, however, had to make the going hard, the shorthanded McLennan aggregation showed a flimsy game for the middle of the afternoon. The game was the strongest they have put up throughout the entire week. At the close of the play night 15-12, with the visitors winning in four events and are closing up the spread.

Carson of Winnipeg, reached the jewel of the curling world when he defeated Baschal of Phillips. The Carson rink still has a chance of placing second in the grand aggregate as has Major of Port Arthur.

BONAR LAW TOLD TO TAKE COUNSEL OF WISER MEN

Irish Question Would Be as Hard for Conservatives as for Liberal

THOUGHTFUL UNIONISTS ARE AGREED AS TO THIS

Lord Haldane Does Not Disparage of Agreement Between Two Parties

London, Jan. 15.—Conservative prominence is naturally given to the morning to Bonar Law's pessimistic statement that he does not know what his party's attitude will be. His conversations between Ulster and Scotland regarding Ulster had not yet been written up, but the Conservatives on other hand was urging the same moment at Boston not to get agitated because for them the very question had raised many doubts, saying he did not despair of approaching a common determination between the two.

The Manchester Guardian, regretting as the intransigence of the Ulster leaders, said it was evident that Bonar Law did not explain what precisely is the point of difference between the two parties.

"Let him call into his connect men of a different temper and wider experience," said the Manchester Guardian, adding: "It is idle to treat this as a party question. Why then does the Conservative party believe the Irish question would be as difficult for them if left unsolved as it can possibly be for their opponents."

Let him call into his connect men of a different temper and wider experience, said the Manchester Guardian, adding: "It is idle to treat this as a party question. Why then does the Conservative party believe the Irish question would be as difficult for them if left unsolved as it can possibly be for their opponents?"

200 UNEMPLOYED MEN REFUSED TO TAKE WORK TODAY

When Ordered to Leave the Fair Grounds They Proceed to
I.W.W. Hall

ONE MAN ARRESTED FOR ASSAULTING COOK

Men Who Accept Jobs Described as Silly Cures and Skunks
Police Take Hand

(From Evening Edition.)

Following a clash between the unemployed and the cook at the fair grounds, the police made a subsequent arrest of Fred Cook, who was accused of assaulting the cook, some two hundred men refused to go to work in the dining hall, and refused to go to work and returned down town to the I.W.W. hall.

A large majority of the men were prepared to go to work yesterday, but the police and the city authorities closed up the camp at the fair grounds. Then one of the executives of the unemployed, and the man who has accepted the job, went to the police and with the committee of health and safety, made an inflammatory speech in which he urged the men to go to work, but gave two reasons for his advice, one was that the city officers refused to hire the unemployed, and the other that one of their number had secured a job as foreman, and the other that one of their number had been refused a job as foreman.

Refused to Leave at First.

At first the men refused to accept employment, although demands at the dining hall to move out as the place was to be closed. He finally gained his point, however, and the men started moving off the grounds. About two hundred of them trudged down town to meet the police.

While the men under the leadership of members of the Industrial Workers of the World, refused to go to work, nothing serious developed, and it is quite probable that the men will be employed again.

Meeting in I.W.W. Hall.

At the meeting in the hall of the Industrial Workers of the World, the police station, to discuss the new method adopted by the civic authorities to keep the grounds open, the addresses were delivered by members of the executive of the league, speaking with great enthusiasm.

A bitter denunciation of those who accepted the work yesterday morning was made by the men who referred to the workers as "waste products of the earth, and a bunch of dirt." Another speaker, however, said that another speaker agitated a concerted demand upon the police for the immediate release of a comrade who was under charge of assault, the speaker emphasizing his remarks by reference to the man in the audience across the room: "An injury to all is an injury to all."

The police are keeping a close watch on the ringleaders, and are attempting to induce the men to go to work or to hold meetings off the grounds.
